NATURE

Artwork revealing Christ's glory

French artist Claude Monet (moh - NAY) usually painted colorful and peaceful outdoor scenes. It is well known that Monet had a happy childhood—which is reflected in his art!

The personality of an artist can often be seen in his or her work.

Spanish painter Pablo Picasso suffered from chronic depression and his work often reflected a dark, somber, and sometimes bizarre mood.

Everything in creation tells us something about our Creator, the greatest Artist of all.

There is nothing trivial in nature. The tiniest creature reveals the mind of Jesus.

What aspects of our Lord's character are seen in this photo?

FAMILY ACTIVITY: Exploring God's Glory

As a family, go to a park, woodland, field, mountain, seashore . . . or your backyard. After you arrive, try not to speak for 20 or 30 minutes, but quietly observe nature around you using your five senses (Psalm 46:10). Then together discuss what attributes of our Creator you see reflected in the things He has made (Romans 1:20). Write them down. If you have time, visit another place and make further observations on the glory of God. Read Psalm 104 together.

A partial list of God's attributes:

- | | | |
|------------|----------|------------|
| beautiful | glorious | meek |
| caring | great | merciful |
| creative | gracious | mysterious |
| delightful | holy | orderly |
| faithful | joyful | powerful |
| fearful | kind | sovereign |
| forgiving | living | sweet |
| gentle | loving | vast |
| good | majestic | wise |
